Here are my checks. Or as best as I can duplicate the first time I made them.

OK.....it sounds like you at least checked the calculations made within the notebook and had no issue with them (otherwise you would have raised a red flag). I will therefore assume the calculations within the notebook are correct, but please try to find (or recreate) your calculation check of the notebook entries so that we have those records.

I thought I had made up an electronic version with notes, but I can't find it. It may have been before they merged computer files and OneDrive. I will make another one.

None of the lab notebook calculations were checked.....at least not in the notebook.

Were the standard preparations, spike preparations that were recorded in the lab notebook checked somewhere else possibly?.....on a spreadsheet???

I am investigating whether these were checked somewhere else, but would appreciate some response in the meantime.
